The 210th Anniversary. Fittingly Celebrated in Winnipeg.

RAT PORTAGE ORANGEMEN IN LINE

A MONSTER PARADE. EXCELLENT SPEECHES AND FINE WEATHER MARK THE DAY.

Loyal Orange Lodges, No. 1632; No. 1680, Victoria Ladies' Lodge True Blues, and the Young Britons, together with a number of visiting brethren, attended service at the Methodist church Sunday evening last and listened to an excellent sermon by the new pastor of Zion church, Rev. J. H. Morgan. The Orangemen presented a nice and creditable appearance on parade to church, which was witnessed by quite a number of people.

On the morning of the 12th they were all up bright and early to take the train for Winnipeg to celebrate the battle of the Boyne and venerate the memory of King William, the glorious, pious and immortal. The special train which they took at 7 a.m. was decorated in a splendid manner. Engineer Kendall and Fireman O'Neil took special pains with the train and had it bedecked with the Orange colors, and bore the motto "Derry, Aghrim and the Boyne" across its front. There were about 500 people on the train, quite a number of citizens joining with the members of the order to celebrate the day.

At Winnipeg they were given a splendid reception and all reported a most enjoyable day.

The weather was delightful and everyone joined in with hearty enthusiasm to celebrate the day. The prairie city was alive with Orangemen from all parts of the province of Manitoba, and their bright colors were in Rat Portage will be sorry to hear of his departure, but will wish him well in his new position.

With the Mining Public

A Colorado paper says: "A good-looking vein has been cut by the graders of the Colorado Springs short-line railroad. The cut is 60 feet in depth and the ore streak or vein—that has not been determined—is an inch in width. The formation is granite." And out there they treat such finds seriously and spend thousands of dollars testing to see if the vein will get longer. Under such circumstances little wonder that western mining men look askance when they are told of our big rich surface veins, and our Great Homestake, Scramble, Hammond Reef, Emma D. and Alice Aare received with undisguised incredulity.

John B. Weinier, who some years since was a character on the Minnesota and Michigan iron ranges, according to the New York Engineering and Mining Journal, is now in Pinte Co., Utah, surveying the Huck Placer for patent. He positively affirms that he will hold the ground taken up and extensively improved by the Snyder Improvement Company. Until he made the surprising discovery—none imagined this was placer ground. Old timers around Rainy Lake City will remember the irrepressible John and his connection with that townsite and the Little American gold mine.

T. H. Oxnam, late of the De La Mar mines, Utah, has gone to London on a business trip and will also visit the Paris exposition. Mr. Oxnam will be remembered as the expert who visited Lake of the Woods district a year ago, and found much to commend, but considered the prices asked for prospects greater than could be obtained elsewhere for fully or partially developed mines. It is too bad he was driven out of the country on such account, as had he stayed he would have done our mining region a vast amount of good.

A company has been incorporated in St. Paul to work property in the Cross Lake and Manitowish Lake region. The company is called the Cross Lake Mining Co. The directors of the company are: Anthony Voery, of the Voery Brewing Co.; Edward Peterson, ass't. labor commissioner of the State of Minnesota; J. D. Cedarberg, ass't. insurance commissioner for State of Minnesota; Frank E. Elman, ex-treasurer of Ramsey County, all of St. Paul; and Archibald Campbell, mining broker of the town of Rat Portage. This company expects to start developing not later than the first of August.

E. H. Stanger, barrister, and wife,

Mr. Hall is leaving and Mr. Preston will take up the management again. The mill will probably be increased to 100 stamps before very long.

The Foley is coming ahead in great shape. The development on the 8 foot vein is disclosing it to be a marvel. It is reported that 50 more men are to start to work immediately at development on this great mine.

A number of other mines are working or are ready to start so that altogether the prospects are excellent for the general prosperity of the district.

Tornado at Manitow, Man.

Manitow, Man., July 10. Last evening a tornado passed at the outskirts of the town in a southeasterly direction. Harmer's farm buildings, a mile and a half from town, were in the path of the storm and suffered severely, the barn being completely demolished. The house was also damaged. A small house and stable on the next farm, which were unoccupied, were also destroyed. Two miles further on John Tait's house was picked up bodily and entirely destroyed, with all its contents. The occupants at the time were Mrs. Tait, two children and a man named Martin Fiddlelick, from Morden. Fiddlelick's leg was broken, a little boy had one arm broken, while the others escaped with a severe shaking up. Very little hail accompanied the storm and no damage to crops is reported from it.

GRAND MASTER McCLURG'S VISIT

Of inspection of the I. O. O. F. Lodge of Keewatin and Rat Portage.

Jas. McClurg, M. D. and wife, of Woodstock, were guests at the Harland House Monday and Tuesday. Dr. McClurg is the Grand Master of the I. O. O. F. in Ontario, and his visit was for the purpose of inspecting the Odd-fellow organizations at this place and Keewatin. He was entertained by the Oddfellows of the two towns, being taken for a trip round the myriad of islands of the lake on Monday afternoon on the Kenora, and also on Monday night to a moonlight excursion on the same boat. The weather unfortunately Monday evening was disagreeable on account of the rain.

train, quite a number of citizens joined with the members of the order to celebrate the day.

At Winnipeg they were given a splendid reception and all reported a most enjoyable day.

The weather was delightful and everyone joined in with hearty enthusiasm to celebrate the day. The prairie city was alive with Orangemen from all parts of the province of Manitoba, and their bright colors were everywhere visible. The city seemed to be en fete, flags and decorations being displayed from many of the leading stores and private residences.

The parade was an immense one, about four thousand Orangemen being in line, while the streets were crowded with people. It reminded one of the big processions in Toronto, the centre of Orangemen in Canada.

At Fort Garry park speeches were delivered by a number of prominent members of the order, among whom were the Hon. D. H. McFadden, Major Mulvey, Mayor Wilson and Revs. J. C. Madill and J. C. Walker, all breathing of loyalty to the British flag and fidelity to the order of which they were proud.

An excellent program of sports was also gone through with, the principal event being a lacrosse match between the Winnipeg Intermediates and a team from Roland, the latter defeating the city boys.

The Rat Portage Orangemen arrived home about 1:30 this morning, all tired out, but praising the success of the day's celebration.

Geo. J. Ross Leaves.

Geo. J. Ross, for a number of years representative in this district of the Canadian Rand Drill Co., left on yesterday morning's train for Nelson, B. C., where he goes to assume the position of chief engineer at the Hall mines. Mr. Ross was prominent in local mining circles, being connected with several mining enterprises during his residence here. He was a member of the Rowing Club, the Curling Club and the Lake of the Woods Club, and took a prominent part in Athletics. His host of friends

Lake and Manitowish region. The company is called the Cross Lake Mining Co. The directors of the company are: Anthony Voery, of the Voery Brewing Co.; Edward Peterson, asst. labor commissioner the State of Minnesota; J. O. Cedarberg, asst. insurance commissioner for State of Minnesota; Frank E. Elman, ex-treasurer of Ramsey County, all of St. Paul; and Archibald Campbell, mining broker of the town of Rat Portage. This company expects to start developing not later than the first of August.

E. H. Sangster, barrister, and wife, of Wabigoon, were in town Wednesday. Mr. Sangster states that mining in the Manitowish district is very promising and lots of development work is being done on the different properties. Work on the spur railroad line from the C.P.R. to the Ottawa Milling Co.'s property is being pushed very rapidly, all the grading being nearly completed.

H. M. Gleason, of Worcester, Mass., was in town this week. He is just returning from Dawson City, where he spent three years. He is interested in Great Granite Co.

Frank Peterson, manager of the Manhattan mine, Seine River, passed through last week on a visit to New York. He was accompanied by Mrs. Peterson.

Ed. Coolidge, secretary of the Trecon Mining Co., arrived last week from the Soo in the interests of the company. He is accompanied by Mrs. Coolidge.

R. E. Dron, the well known mining engineer, of Glasgow, Scotland, was in town today. Mr. Dron was here a few weeks ago and examined several properties in the interests of a Scotch syndicate. He has just returned from a like mission in British Columbia and California and is now on his way home to Scotland.

SEINE RIVER MINES.

Matters are Looking Well but Work is Delayed by Low Water.

The mining business in the Seine river country is rather quiet at present owing to the low water which has made it impossible to get in the machinery necessary for some of the mines which will begin operations, or start up on a more extended scale just as soon as these wants can be supplied. The recent rise of the water in the river will alleviate this to a great extent. A few days more will make enough water for the Keenora to get up without any difficulty. As soon as the drive of logs is out of American territory the water that is dammed up will be let loose and that will keep the level of the water good. All the properties which are working in the Seine country are giving excellent results. The Mayflower group near Sturgeon Falls is said to be looking fine. Manager Flaherty of the Golden Star is so pleased with the present looks of that mine that he has recommended the doubling of the mill plant, making it a 20-stamp mill.

The new vein is looking fine and promises to be fully as rich as the old one ever was. Then new ore bodies have been uncovered in the old workings, so the chances are good for the Golden Star.

The Olive is not working at present.

McClung is the grand Master of the O.O.F. in Ontario, and his visit was for the purpose of inspecting the Odd-fellow organizations at this place and Keewatin. He was entertained by the Oddfellows of the two towns, being taken for a trip round the myriad islands of the lake on Monday afternoon on the Keenora, and also on Monday night to a moonlight excursion on the same boat. The weather unfortunately Monday evening was disagreeable on account of the frequent showers of rain, but the Oddfellows of Keewatin and Rat Portage made up for this in an especial effort to entertain their guests. The Keewatin band was on board and enlivened the proceedings with some choice music. The following day the Dr. and Mrs. McClung were given a carriage drive around the city.

This is the first visit of the great doctor to Rat Portage, and he was greatly surprised to find a town so large and so solidly built. He was also impressed with its possibilities for the future. He was agreeably surprised at the wonderful beauty of the Lake of the Woods, declaring that it surpassed the famous thousand islands of the St. Lawrence. In fact the Dr. and Mrs. McClung were so charmed with the beauty of situation that they desired to linger longer, but pressing engagements would not allow them. They left for Winnipeg Wednesday morning.

Retail Clerks.

The retail clerks held a meeting Tuesday night in Lily hall, which was largely attended. The committee with the petition to the merchants in regard to early closing report great success in getting signatures. When the canvass has been completed, which is expected will be shortly, it will be presented to the council and a by-law prayed for. The meeting was very enthusiastic and the clerks will doubt secure their object.

The Khaki Social.

The khaki social, given Tuesday night in Lily hall, which was very successful. The attendance was very large. Decorations were arranged in very tasteful and the program was highly entertaining. The refreshments were choice, and partaken of in a very gracious way. Mr. Lane's name introduced the program with an address of welcome to the new pastor, Rev. J. H. Morgan, after the opening hymn and prayer. Mesdames Barnes and Poole gave solos. Roy Weidman gave a recitation, and Rev. Mr. Morgan addressed the assemblage. Dr. Chapman's photograph selections were appreciated very much. The young ladies were dressed in khaki uniforms looked charming. Altogether the occasion was very successful, a sum of twenty-five dollars odd being realized.

MINE PROMOTIONS.

A Share of Stock Represents a Certain Percentage of Property

INVESTORS SHOULD REALIZE THIS

VALUE ALSO DEPENDS ON THE AMOUNT OF STOCK ISSUED AND OUTSTANDING

The investing public should realize that a share of stock in a corporation is a certificate of its title to a certain percentage of the property owned by the company and that its value depends not only upon the value of that property, but also upon the amount of stock issued and outstanding. It would be well for the mining business of the west if promoters would also realize the importance of this fact, says the Denver Mining Reporter.

Let us suppose, and this is a fair example of what custom seems to justify, that 750,000 shares of stock have been issued by the promoter to himself and his dummies in consideration of which the company gets a mine prospect worth say $5,000 (actual cash value) and 250,000 shares are left in the treasury. At this stage of the proceeding (did I say game?) each share issued of stock is worth six and two-third mills. Now let us suppose that $25,000 are necessary for development work—to raise this amount it is necessary to sell treasury stock for 12½¢ per share, allowing 20 per cent as a charge for selling the stock. This may seem a large commission for selling the stock, but when it is known that many promoters charge from 50 to 75 per cent it will not seem so high. The company sells its treasury stock for a net sum of $25,000 and has the money in the treasury.

At this stage the company has $30,000 in money and property, and has issued 1,000,000 shares or all of its capital stock; each share of its stock is now worth 3¢. For the $5,000 put in by the promoter, he owns three-quarters of $30,000 worth of property, or $22,500. For the $22,500 paid in by the investors, they own one-quarter of $30,000 worth of property, or $7,500. The remarkable growth of the promoter's money and the corresponding shrinkage of the investor's money is what the Mining Reporter insists is er would have owned one-sixth of the issued stock of the company and his $5,000 property would have grown to be worth one-sixth of $100,000, or $16,666.

"The promoter's property has been multiplied by three in value and he has received a commission of $7,250 for selling the stock of his company to the investor. He seems to have been fairly well paid for his services and for being moderately honest.

The investor would have owned five-sixths of the issued stock, and consequently the investment of $22,500 would have grown to be worth five-sixths of $100,000, or $83,333. Now it's different with the investor. His 6 per cent farm mortgages will at once be converted into cash and put into mining enterprise. His friends also see the advantages of mining investments.

Mining Engineering as a Profession

D. A. Lee, University of Washington, in Mining: "Of all professions mining engineering probably receives the least attention. There are many reasons for this. To some the calling is disagreeable because of the unattractive surroundings of mining regions, or of the frontier life in out-of-the-way places in which the valuable minerals are found. A great many persons of intelligence have no idea whatever of what is required of a mining engineer. To most people mines are holes in the ground; a conception which is quite true, but they are very complicated holes, and some of the largest and best constructed machinery in the world is used in them. Few young men give thought to this calling, knowing only of the more common branches of engineering. Or if thought is given to the subject at all, it is looked upon as one which is altogether practical and one which no one need study within the walls of a university or a technical school. They imagine it is a profession which can be picked up just as the deth of the store clerk, the work of an oil or any position which can be filled by the man of ordinary intelligence. But this is far from being so.

"To be a successful mining engineer, one must be a good geologist, a skilled mechanic and civil engineer, or at least be so divided in the rudiments of these branches as to be able to apply them in his work. He should have a knowledge of geology, because when he enters a new field of work he has to study the different formations, both as regards mineral deposits, and also as they affect the work of opening up and of construction. He has also to do with topographic features. And here come in the elements of horizontal and vertical dissection, which occur over and charge of the interests of some large mining company. As a matter of fact he may at first have to accept the position of a car pusher or of an ore sorter. Such work will not hurt him. As someone has said: "He is putting theory into practice." A man of worth will soon be recognized and a few years will find him occupying a position of trust as superintendent or manager, or an expert.

Brothers in Opposing Armies.

The following reference in a recent issue of "South Africa" seemingly refers to Mr. Montague White Frazier, who in Vancouver received a commission in Strathearn's Horse: "The way in which the war has separated members of the same family into opposite camps, is strikingly illustrated in the case of Mr. Montague White, until recently consul-general for the South African republic in London, and his brother, Lieut. White, now serving in Strathearn's Horse. Lieut. White has had previous experience of South African campaigning, having served in the Natal Mounted Police during the last Zulul war. He subsequently became an inspector in the Northwest Mounted Police, a post from which he retired a few years ago, but gladly seized the opportunity of enlisting in the Canadian contingent now at the front. During the Northwest rebellion of 1885 he served with much distinction."

A REALLY SICK MAN

SUFFERED TERRIBLE AGONY DUE TO KIDNEY AND LIVER TROUBLE.

Medicines Apparently Had no Effect, Until at the Solicitation of a Friend He Used Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and was Cured.

From the Mail, Granby, Q. A.

My friend Albert Fisher, accountant at McNeil's Paper Factory, Granby, Que., is known to almost every resident of the town, and is held in the highest estimation by all who know him. In conversation with the editor of the Mail recently, something was said concerning Dr. Williams' Pink Pills when Mr. Fisher remarked that he had found these pills a very valuable medicine.

It was suggested that he should make his experience known, and to this he readily consented, handing to the Mail the following letter for publication: Granby, March 6, 1900.

In justice to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills I think it my duty, in view of what they have done for me, to add my testimonial to the many which I have seen in print. For some months I suffered most severely from pains up and down my back. It was thought these were due to liver and kidney trouble, but whatever the cause, they kept me in terrible agony. The pains

He Walked The Floor

In Agony With Pains In the Back—Sleep Impossible—Medicine of no Avail—He got Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

Mr. Patrick J. McLaughlin, Barharnd, Que., states: "I was troubled with Kidney Disease and Dyspepsia for 20 years and have been so bad that I could not sleep at nights on account of pains in the back, but would walk the floor all night and suffered terrible agony."

"I tried all sorts of medicines but got no relief until I began using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. They made a new man of me, and the old troubles seem to be driven out of my system."

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills have an enormous sale, and owe their popularity to the fact that they can be absolutely relied upon to cure all ailments of the kidneys, liver, and stomach. They are purely vegetable in composition, prompt and effective in action, and cure permanently. One pill a dose, 25 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanston, Bates and Co, Toronto.

The Crop of F. is Eternal.

I have repeatedly advised my readers that any concern that will guarantee more than the legal rate of interest may be set down as a fraud. Millions of idle capital are seeking investment in New York at the legal rate of interest, and will pay a bonus to obtain this rate. Much of this capital is invested at only 2 or 3 per cent interest. It is therefore unnecessary for those who have "sure things" in the investment line to hunt up subscribers.

The police of New York have just broken up a gang which has been operating as bankers and brokers in handsome offices near Wall street, and which has scattered alluring circulars throughout the country, explaining how enormous profits could be made in wheat and stocks because of the firm's alleged close connection with Armour, Leiter and other famous operators. A real estate speculative branch was connected with this stock brokerage firm, and it was doing a swimming business when the police stepped in and arrested the entire outfit.

So many warnings have been given in reference to the operations of similar schemes that it would seem as if the intelligent public would be thoroughly informed regarding such matters, but it has been well said that "the crop of fools is eternal."—Leslie's Weekly.

To Harness the Aurora Borealis.

And now it is the Aurora borealis, more popularly known as the northern lights, that is to be seized upon by the utilitarian spirit of the age and converted to the material uses of man. Such, at least, is the proposal made by Evelyn B. Balwin, a government meteorologist who has recently returned from a tour of observation in the far north, where he studied the aurora at close range. It is his contention that the electrical energy and force which produce the aurora borealis now worth 3c. For the $5,000 put in by the promoter, he owns three-quarters of $30,000 worth of property, or $22,500. For the $32,250 paid in by the investors, they own one-quarter of $30,000 worth of property, or $7,500. The remarkable growth of the promoter's money and the corresponding shrinkage of the investor's money is what the Mining Reporter insists is unfair.

Now the company is ready to proceed to make a mine out of its $5,000 prospect. Let us suppose, which it is perfectly fair to do, that $30,000, together with the proceeds of such ore as shall be taken out, will develop this prospect into a mine worth $100,000. This, if true, would seem to indicate that mining is a legitimate and profitable business. A $30,000 investment has grown to be worth $100,000.

If it would seem that every investor in so profitable an enterprise as this should make a profit from his investment, and he certainly would do so if he got a fair deal. If he fails to make a profit it is evident that something is radically wrong in the enterprise. The investors in this case have put up $32,500 and they own one-fourth of a $100,000 property, or $25,000. In other words, for each dollar invested they have property worth 77c, and somehow they don't feel very enthusiastic about the mining business. They think that a 6 per cent farm mortgage is much more desirable.

If this promoter had been only moderately dishonest and had sold his prospect for say five times its value to those who were confiding in him and had a right to expect fair treatment, he would have had 50,000 shares of stock.

Under these conditions the promoter able to apply them in his work. He should have a knowledge of geology, because, when he enters a new field of work he has to study the different formations, both as regards mineral deposits, and also as they affect the work of opening up and of construction. He has also to do with topographic features. And here come in the elements of horizontal and vertical distances, which occur over and over again. Unless the student is well trained in this branch of engineering work, he will always meet problems which are hard to solve, and as a result his work will never be satisfactory to himself or to his employers. The mining engineer should also be familiar with the methods of testing the strength of iron, wood, building stone, etc., which he has to use constantly in his construction work. He should be able to assay and analyze the different minerals and mineral products which he has to deal with; he should be able to dissect pumps, air compressors, engines and other appliances. If the mining engineer does not have the full training of a civil and mechanical engineer, he should at least be familiar with the use and adjustment of instruments, and with practical and theoretical land surveying. It is also essential that he have a thorough practical knowledge of topographic work and map making; he should be able to make his own drawings, if necessary, or know how to direct the work of others.

Now the young man may say that all this will require too much time; that life is too short. How about those who enter other professions? College men, and they are the ones who succeed best, going into law, medicine or engineering, must spend, two, three or four years in the law, medical or theological schools if they get that technical training required by their profession. And then the young lawyer has to wait sometimes for years before he gets his first case into court; the young doctor must needs have experience and become gray-headed before his success is assured. To be a good anything is a serious undertaking. I would not advise anyone to enter the profession of mining engineering who has not the aptitude for it. The young man should feel that the occupation will suit him. Nevertheless, the demands of the profession require no particular kind of intellect save that of a broad mental grasp, which we all know is essential in order that any man may have decided success. Of course, a large proportion of the mining men of this country never had a technical education, but on the other hand, men with the right kind of training are not "looking for a job."

Today the demand for educated young men along this line exceeds the supply. I do not mean to say that the young man who completes his technical course will at once be placed in Granby, March 6, 1900.

In justice to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, I think it my duty, in view of what they have done for me, to add my testimonial to the many which I have seen in print. For some months I suffered most severely from pains up and down my back. It was thought these were due to liver and kidney trouble, but whatever the cause, they kept me in terrible agony. The pains were not confined to the back, but would shift to other parts of the body. As a result, I could get little rest; my appetite was much impaired, and I was really a sick man. I tried many different remedies, without effect, and which disgusted me with medicine. A friend suggested that I try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I was not easily persuaded, for I had given up the use of medicine, as nothing had helped me, but as he insisted, I finally concluded to give them a trial. I purchased one box, and was astonished to find that before it was entirely used, I was was quite a bit relieved, and after using six more, was fully restored to my former good health. I take great pleasure in recommending this valuable remedy, that others may profit by my experience, and not suffer the tortures that I did.

Yours sincerely,
Albert Fisher.
Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cure by going to the root of the disease. They renew and build up the blood, and strengthen the nerves, thus driving disease from the system. If your dealer does not keep them, they will be sent postpaid at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50, by addressing the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

THE GLASS OF FASHION.

Heavy chenille fringes finish the ends of elaborate black neck ruffles.

Narrow ties of white grosgrain ribbon two or three inches wide have pointed ends with lace insertion and edging.

Buckles are an important feature of fall trimmings and dress accessories. Those of cut steel are especially popular.

The violet shades hold their own. Rose pink is used for combination. There will of course be new shades shown as the season advances.

Among buttons the ones most called for are of jet, steel, pearl, crystal and enamel. The medallion and cameo buttons are being used to some extent.

Gray is used as a body color to a great extent. A neutral shade for Persian effects by means of applique finds a cordial reception from well dressed women.

Velvet belts and plain stocks of black velvet have large steel buckles in front. No one has yet learned why a woman wishes to give herself the appearance of being in harness.

A light tone of robin's egg blue has become popular. There is a possibility that the colors this fall and winter will be in lighter shades than those usually adopted for the winter season.

The woman who knows has ripped very button from the back of the dress skirts made last winter and wears them as plain as possible, with no sign of visible fastening on the back. The buttons have found their way to too many common gowns to be good form.

ern lights, that is to be set upon by the utilitarian spirit of the age and converted to the material uses of man. Such, at least, is the proposal made by Evelyn B. Baldwin, a government meteorologist who has recently returned from a tour of observation in the far north, where he studied the aurora at close range. It is his contention that the electrical energy and force which produce the aurora borealis should some day be utilized as a power to generate heat, steam and other useful agents. One hesitates over the question whether he ought to be pleased or saddened at the latest suggestion of science. It is very much as if it were proposed to hitch rainbows to a fish wagon or make an evening sunset or the milky way do service as a patent medicine advertisement. Surely it would be well to leave some things on earth or in the sky with uses not to be measured on the cash basis.—Kansas City Independent.

A Precedent.
A man and wife named Chenoweth of Frankfort, Ind., were recently prosecuted for refusing to provide medical attendance for their child, but the judge directed the jury to acquit them on the ground that there is no law in Indiana requiring a parent to provide medical attention for his children. The ruling is expected to be national in influence. The judge announced from the bench that there never before had been a trial like this in the country. The state filed exceptions and will appeal to the supreme court.

Mixed His Own Death Potion.
An English doctor has been the victim of his own medicine. He made up a draft for a patient, putting in by mistake strychnine instead of chloroform, and when she complained that it made her sick got angry and to prove that the medicine was all right swallowed half the contents of the bottle himself. He immediately recognized the symptoms of strychnine poisoning and used a stomach pump and other means to destroy the effects, but died soon after.

Chilled Chloroform.
According to The Medical Times, local chloroform has been used as an anæsthetic in the Julius hospital at Wurzburg in over 14,000 cases with the most excellent effect. It is said to be much quicker in its action than chloroform administered at the ordinary temperature and to leave none of the nausea and depression which almost every one who has been under the ordinary anæsthetics has experienced. It is also believed to be much safer than other preparations. Altogether, so much is claimed for it that we suppose it will soon be tried in the English hospitals.—London Globe.

The Clear Disarmament.
Diplomatists abroad are just now commenting on a reduction of the czar's army which has taken place this year. It is a disputed question whether the czar is thus quietly taking the initiative in his disarmament theory, or whether the reduction has been made through motives of economy or because the St. Petersburg war office is of the opinion that the army is already large enough for any contingency.

BUSINESS PROSPECTS.

The recent rains have so raised the water in the streams running into Rainy river that the lumber company has been able to secure large numbers of logs, and it is expected the big mill will commence running next Monday, and continue doing so till the end of the season. With the ordinary amount of rain it is altogether likely that no further trouble will be experienced this year through lack of logs. This, with the increased demand for lumber in Manitoba through the improved condition of the crops, should infuse new life into the business interests of Rat Portage.

MANITOBA CROPS.

The recent rains have so raised the condition of the crops in Manitoba that about a two-third crop is expected in the dry districts, while many sections the crop will be a full crop. The Territory has a phenomenal crop. In the Prince Albert and Edmonton many good crops of wheat and wheat crop will be a full crop. In the west, with the improved condition of the crops, it is considerably expected that the total yield of wheat will exceed that of any former year. Taking this in conjunction with the increased price of wheat, the outlook for a prosperous fall in the west is very encouraging, notwithstanding the very gloomy outlook of a couple of weeks ago.

This is equal to 6 tons of sulphite and 1 1/2 tons of ground wood pulp per acre. Hence, taking ground wood pulp as the basis, and ten tons per acre as the product, there are 4,500,000,000 tons of wood pulp in sight in Canada.

Their Gallant and Soldierly Instincts.

Ottawa, July 12.—In the House on Saturday Dr. Baden read this despatch from Lord Roberts from Pretoria:

"I have much pleasure in bringing to your Excellency's notice the good work done by the First and Second Battalions, Canadian Mounted Rifles, who have been repeatedly conspicuous for their gallant conduct and soldier-like instincts. During the attack by the Boers on Koffers on the 22nd of June a small party of Pincher Creek men of the 2nd Battalion displayed the greatest gallantry and devotion to duty, holding in check a force of Boers by whom they were largely outnumbered. Corporal Morden and Private Kerr continued fighting till mortally wounded. Lieut. Corporal Miles and Private Miles, wounded, continued to fire and hold the ground.

"On the 18th of June a party of the First Battalion and Lieut. Young, when operating with a force under General Buller, in the Northwest of Pretoria, succeeded in capturing two of the enemy's guns and brought in a herd of cattle and a large quantity of provisions.

A Growing Industry.

The Toronto Globe. In eastern Canada we hear of the wool and again of large purchases of wool by consumers from the United States but we do not quite appreciate the fact that years ago the woolen mills had existence, and that now in Ontario many of the mills are merely operating on an extensive scale had been taken down and abandoned. The statistics of exports shows why it is that wool manufacturers make a good grade of goods, flour millers get many of the classes of producers are much interested in the development of the western country. There are thousands of men to feed and clothe in that country which ten years ago was a vast wilderness. The export of skins from Canada in 1899 was $108,245 in 1898 was $2,620,241. The export of lead and ore in 1899 was $1,410,000 in 1898 was $880,000. In 1899 Canada did not send out a pound of meat to the country, but in 1898 she sent $2,000,000 worth. In 1899 the export of $2,000,000 worth of goods, the value in 1898 was $2,000,000, and in 1899 it was $2,000,000.

THE TURF REVIEW.

Peter the Great, 2:07 3/4, is the fastest trotter ever bred in Michigan.

Kitty R. bay mare, 2:08 3/4, pacing, by Kermis, has been thrown out of training.

Guy, 2:12, record made this year, entered the 230 list as a 3-year-old in 1892.

Wyndham, 2:13 1/2, by Robert McGregor, is credited with a 2:10 trial at the trot.

M. E. McHenry is credited with having won $27,000 with the horses he drove on the grand circuit.

Allerton and Elyria are tied for the honors of the year to date. Each has seven performers to his credit.

Searchlight paced a mile in 2:02 at Indianapolis Sept. 22, but it was not a record, as he started to beat 1:59 1/4.

The race at Providence is said to have been the first one in which Charley Herr was ever behind the money.

The team Ottinger and Jacksonian, owned by Jacob Justice, trotted in 2:18 1/2 at Belmont park, Philadelphia, recently.

Darley's mile in 2:10 at the recent Bethlehem (Pa.) meeting was the fastest ever paced in the state over a half mile track.

Marcus Daly has a 2-year-old colt named Joe N. by Milroy, who is said to have begun 2:20 and shown a half at a 2:15 gait.

Billy Andrews, 2:06 3/4, by Bow Bells, won all of his races in the grand circuit, five in number, and his winnings foot up to $6,325.

B. B. P., 2:06 3/4, by Pilot Medium, has joined the side wheelers and has paced several races in the west, but has not yet entered the list.

Another trotter named Alix has entered the list of California. She is by Surwood Wilkes, dam a sister to Little Albert, and her record is 2:24 1/2.

Idiotracer Walter E., 2:10, by Mambrino, is now owned by George Ross, and will be sold for $15,000.

It is a little odd that the tuberoses should have gone so completely out of favor. You can hardly find one in a flower store. Probably the cloying sweetness of the odor has some something to do with its loss of popular favor.

MR. FRISBIE NOT TROUBLED

Over the Despatch Published in the Daily Papers Re Indian Trouble.

The St. Paul Dispatch says: Consul Agent Frisbie, of Rat Portage, may find himself in hot water because of his action in reporting the Indian troubles to Governor Lind, instead of to the state department at Washington, which he is an employee. Mr. Frisbie is under the jurisdiction of the United States consul at Winnipeg, and his instructions require him to report to the state department through the consul at Winnipeg. Instead, he reported to Governor Lind, and has put the state to the trouble of sending a body of troops to the front for work that is supposed to be done by federal soldiers. Governor Lind has received a letter from Secretary Root, of the war department, enclosing a letter from Secretary of State Hay, in which the latter says that Mr. Frisbie has been asked for an explanation of his conduct. It seems that Secretary Root transmitted the governor's telegram with regard to the threatened Indian trouble, to the state department. Secretary Hay replied that July 2, he had wired the consul at Winnipeg to instruct the consul agent at Rat Portage to report on the Indian trouble and the conduct of the Indians in his neighborhood, and to explain why he had reported to the governor of Minnesota instead of to the state department through the consul at Winnipeg, as his instructions required. Mr. Root states that he had received in reply a telegram from the consul stating that the Indian troubles were at an end, and that Agent Frisbie's explanation had been forwarded by mail.

In regard to the foregoing, a reporter of THE MINER called on Mr. Frisbie, but he did not care to make any statement to the press as he had not a full explanation to the state department.

However, we believe that the authorities will understand that Mr. Frisbie acted properly and promptly in the matter. In the published despatch, Mr. Frisbie sent to the Governor of Minnesota, we find no request for troops to be sent, therefore no blame, if blame there is, can be attached to him for the sending of a body of Minnesota troops to the scene of the threatened trouble. Following is the despatch:

Rat Portage, June 28, 1900.

A Daring Feat.

Thousands of people lined the banks of the Niagara river recently to witness the attempt of Captain Nissen, alias P. M. Bowser, to navigate the river below the falls. After various vicissitudes, including a threat of arrest by the Canadian authorities, he got his patent boat, the Fool-Killer started out. At the first attempt it drifted into the current that carried it back toward the falls and had to be towed out. On the second attempt he succeeded in keeping the boat in the main stream. On striking the waves opposite the incline railway bridge the boat was tossed about unmercifully, but carefully righted itself after each attack. When it struck the tossing mountain or water opposite the foot of the whirlpool rapids, the promenade, as it neared the death hole of Captain Webb, the seething rapid sucked the Fool-Killer into its jaws like a chip, broadside, keel up, an iron bar weighing 1,250 pounds, fastened with rods at the bottom, was on top.

With a crash it went high in the air. Bowser clinging for dear life to the sides of the cockpit as he was wrenched with hundreds of tons of water. In its great fury, it completely submerged the boat and its occupant for some seconds. Everyone yelled, "There is his end," but a moment later the boat was brought right side up, and Bowser waving his hand to tell the people he was still all right in his boat. Down he went riding on the crest and under each successive rapid, when cheering broke out, he schooled up the gorge, announcing that the boat had entered the whirlpool, just near the Canadian ship, where Bowser was finally brought ashore.

The principal engineering value of electricity lies in its adaptation to the transmission of power to some locality where it is desired. A steel rope, by its elasticity, can transmit mechanical power, but it is too expensive to use. A cable, made of wire rope, such in fact as is used in the cable cars, by means of an effective potential of power, by the motion of electricity, can transmit power, and is much cheaper than a steel rope. A thing of the past, however, and of all the boats that have been on the river, there is not a single one that has not been destroyed. The only boat that has been saved is the one that was used by the Canadian authorities to tow the Fool-Killer out of the river.

the by-election held in Queen's Co., P. E. I.

It is reported that at the close of the South Africa Bloemfontein war, the man seen as the savior of the South African cause, the man who was the subject of appeals and ultimately of a republic.

Harbord Phillips, the 70 year old son of Mr. Percy Phillips, London, was killed by lightning during a storm on May 14th.

W. C. Free Press: The establishment of a cemetery in Montreal, which is about to be made possible through the liberality of Sir W. C. Bonald, will allow those in need of this method of disposing of the bodies of loved ones who have been killed, to find so in the past, the same method. It was in 1874 that the Corporation of London was organized. Mr. Harbord Phillips and Sir W. C. Bonald were instrumental in organizing it. Not until 1885, however, was the cemetery erected in London. The cemetery was built in New York, N. Y. The movement is made considerable progress, though it has had to encounter a great deal of opposition based for the most part on sentimental grounds.

The death took place this week at Montreal of Née de Frémière, who in 1871 fought in the rebel side. Deceased, who was 52 years of age, was a native of Berthier, and served as an officer under Papineau, taking part in most of the engagements between the rebels and loyalist troops.

The Great Value and Extent of Economic Minerals of Northwestern Ontario.

A REGION OF GREAT PROMISE AND WONDERFUL POSSI-BILITIES.

In Western Ontario, tributary to Port Arthur on Thunder Bay, are vast fields of magnetite and hematite, declared by the government experts to be rich and abundant enough to compete successfully with the producers of the United States, and to supply Canada for centuries. In Northern Ontario the value and extent of its economic minerals may truly be said to pass belief. One has been told in many localities in the Huronian and Laurentian formation, but the most valuable deposits are without doubt the hematites of the Mattawan Range and the magnetites of the Atikokan muskegs. Specular and hematite ores have also been found in working quantities on the north shores of Lake Huron, while within the paper belt traverses that flank the Nipigon beds, noted to be of rare richness have already attracted active industrial attention. The mineral wealth of the Algoma district, in which Lake Nipigon is situated, is indeed little less than phenomenal. According to Sir William Logan, there are five distinct mineral sections surrounding the lake, which, in his opinion, constitutes one of the finest economic areas in the country. On the projected line of railway which is to traverse the intervening country between the north shore of Lake Superior and the Cap

Without Sleep

The vitality of the body is soon exhausted. Sleeplessness is one of the symptoms of a starved system. It is a warning of the approach of nervous prostration or paralysis. Don't be tempted to use narcotics to obtain sleep. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food will gradually build up and reconstitute the wasted nerve cells and positively cure all nervous diseases. It is a true, greatest restorative, recommended by your druggist.

Auriferous Clays

For more than 40 years efforts have been made to find a method of treatment for the barren clays found in great bodies. Their bodies are 10 miles from Denver. The clay when assayed in the old methods yields values of from 1 to 16 per cent, but no process has been worked out for extracting the gold. At the Alvin Phillips, formerly a partner of the London mine at Park, but has been experimenting on this material for several months, and H. H. Metcalf, who has a large tract of the clay on his ranch near Salsburg, said that Mr. Phillips has suggested the wetting of a high percentage of the gold cyanide in this process, and is now at work perfecting the process so that it will be commercially available.

Business Progression.

Our business is one of integrity and success. No need to apologize on our dispensing facilities: this department is run on correct principle, promptness and accuracy are our motto. We are daily renewing and adding our stock of Perfumes, Atomizers, Sponges, Brushes, Combs and Toilet goods; no old stock; prices always the lowest.

THE TEST OF LOVE

Barbara Merriken Came Near Giving Up a Brave Man For a Coward.

Of all the things that gold and silver have, it is their splendid color that has made them so popular. It is pure elaid tones that make them so fitting for its cultivation. But why should it be called gold? It is not the deepest green color that is more common than the color of a pearl. There are hundreds of thousands of a thousand colors that are more of a pearl. There are many after the sun has lifted, when the broad surface of the river above cascades is a small suffron or burn of gold.

her mother and afterward when he lay in her bed she found herself happy with the ease and triumphant happiness of which she had dreamed. George Caxton, her promised lover, seemed a part of the workaday world. Her thoughts turned away from him in spite of her efforts to be loyal.

She felt sure she would meet the stranger again in the woods, and she did many times. He was a writer by vocation. He even confessed to being a poet. He was not well, he said. The city had worn on him, so he had come for a long rest there among the pines. His name was Cecil Underwood.

Barbara found it impossible to resist the charm of his personality. He seemed ed to make the whole world) over for her. In vain she struggled to remember the truth and patience and strength of her betrothed. He was too well known to her to be seen through a glamour. With austere serenity he insisted upon an early marriage day. He refused apparently to feel any jealousy at the constant companionship of his sweetheart and Cecil Underwood. And Barbara was angry at him for this too.

One wild day when the wind cried through the tree-tops and the waters lashed along as if in stress of pain Cecil Underwood came to her in an imaginative mood.

"You must come walking with me," he said. "The day expresses me. I have to speak of the torment of my heart, and I will keep still longer—even at your bidding."

Barbara went out with . . . They walked under the pines whose roar filled the world with their lamentings. They were silent, as one's self is so silent within their souls.

"Let us take a boat," said Barbara when they had reached the river.

"No, no!" protested the man, as if he did not want to interrupt the storm and jumped into it.

"Come," she said. "He has sailed, but followed." As they went he felt the life of the waves, a pain in her back, seemed to lighten, and she let the current carry her up a stream, out of the presence of man. Such a boat had

WHEN WE BEGAN THE SALE OF THESE SHARES we told the people what we expected.

WE ARE GETTING IT.

St. Paul people who visited this property recently say it is a great property.

Early investors were fortunate in securing these shares.

The time is coming when there will not be a share offered for sale.

We have a clean investment where the element of risk has been brought down to a minimum. We do not promise unreasonable dividends, but just a plain business proposition. Our values are higher than any of the great low-grade mines of the world that are paying immense dividends. Our deposit is positively the largest body of free-milling ore ever discovered. We are offering the safest and cleanest mining proposition that is being sold to-day.

We have a few thousand shares for sale at 15 cents per share, 3 cents per share cash with the order, and 2 cents per share per month until paid.

Five per cent. off if half cash is sent with the order and 10 per cent. off for all cash.

We invite investors to call at our office and secure the names of the parties who visited this great property.

William Logan, there are live, active mineral sections running along the lake, which, in his opinion, constitutes one of the finest economic areas in the country. On the projected line of railway which is to traverse the intervening country between the north shore of Lake Superior and the Canadian Pacific railway, large deposits of hematite and magnetic ores, running over 100 per cent. of metallic iron, have been located. Limestone is abundant, as is also lignite coal, all in the heart of inexhaustible forests of spruce, and in a region where the water power is practically immeasurable. Port Arthur, which is the gateway to this land of industrial promise, at the head of Canadian lake navigation, and the hub from which will radiate several lines of railway, soon destined to become the Pittsburgh of Canada. Among these Nipigon ore beds are also exploited by the St. Joe railway, their smelters will be established on Thunder Bay is something more than a dream. With ore equal it is claimed to those of Newfoundland, including the six varieties found in the Cornubet of the Adirondak hills, which the Bessemer purifiers may be regarded as unequalled, not forgetting the riches of the Mattawan and the shores of Hunter's Island, nor the facilities for assembling the crude materials for the immediate industrial manufacture of iron in the region referred to be regarded as an established fact.

South and east of the Kaministiquia river, another mining district, that of Michipicoten, embracing a tract about 5,000 square miles, has recently been submitted to expert investigation. It lies north of Lake Superior, and its north-eastern boundary is traversed by the line of the Canadian Pacific Railway. In the Wawa and Missinagish region, beds of magnetite have been disclosed assaying 68 per cent. iron. In anticipation of the industrial development that must follow these discoveries, an expenditure of $7,250,000 of American capital has been assumed in the erection of reduction works and steelhead mills and other plant at the Canadian Sault Ste. Marie, which place, if Port Arthur aspires to become the Birmingham, seems destined to be the Sheffield of the Dominion.

On the Rainy River, which conveys the northern overflow from the Lake Superior watershed into the Lake of the Woods, in its descent by the Winnipeg and Nelson rivers to Hudson and on which latter lake over 60 steamboats, now ply bog iron abundance. Enormous masses of this highly magnetized rock rise up in the deep shadows of the forest, much to the confusion of the explorer who attempts an objective point by compass as the writer has experienced to his own embarrassment and these deposits are not remote from civilization, but on the business run of trade limits. On the Seine river, more especially famous for its gold discoveries, south to Hunter's Island, on the United States boundary, iron ores associated with jaspery beds, and geologically analogous and accompanying our mottoes. We are daily renewing and asserting our stock of Patents, Atomizers, Sponges, Brushes, Creams and Toilet goods; no old stock; prices always the lowest.

THE PEOPLE.—Still in favor of Paine's Celery Compound. It is the great family medicine of the present day and never fails to cure. It purifies Paine's Celery Compound and will banish and permanently cure the kidney disease, liver complaint, biliousness resulting from impure blood, the rheum and dyspepsia. Come to try it. Genuine—the kind that cures. J. J. Wood, Druggist, Rat Portage.

Another Record Breaker.—There passed through the Sault Ste. Marie last month to Great Britain, a freight train, which in any preceding month, the history of these famous waterways is as much as the Suez canal. In the first two months of the year, the Sault has carried within its borders of the business of its largest steamship company of the Sault, with a gross of 2,448,000 tons; there were 10,000 tons of grain and 7,000 tons of coal, and by the way, the most half the total, which does not include the stage of fuel at the Sault. The coming winter, the Sault will have more business, for they are busy to the activity and its chief ports.

Science and Skill.—The progressive druggist should be conversant with the science of the profession he follows and skilled in its minutest details. We are practical chemists and druggists; our dispensing department is so managed and fitted up that accuracy is continually guaranteed. We respectfully solicit a visit.

FOR THE WEAK AND RUNDOWN.—We call special attention to Paine's Celery Compound, our best selling medicine. It is a true health and strength restorer for weak and run-down people. It gives that buoyancy of spirits and nerve energy that are so needed in the hot and depressing weather. Paine's Celery Compound stands far above all other remedies for the cure of disease. Johnson's Pharmacy, Rat Portage, Ont.

In North Dakota last year 600,000 acres were sown to flax, yielding an output of more than 7,000,000 bushels of flaxseed. Hitherto the seed alone of the plant has been utilized, but the straw having been found to be admirably adapted for the manufacture of paper by the Hickman process, the French-Hickman Flax-Fibre Co., of London, Eng., and Boston, Mass., has erected a flax fibre mill at a cost of $25,000 at Fargo, where the straw is converted into fibre. This is baled up and shipped to the great mills at Niagara Falls, in which a chemical reduction process it is made into pulp and then into high grade linen writing paper.

her with storn or sullen under the autumn days or scintillant under the July sunshine. She was as much at home upon the river as on the land, and the firm earth, with all its comfort and beauty, could never give her the joy that she felt when the current took her boat in its strong embrace.

She went to the river in her sorrowful moments as well as in her happy ones. She fled to it as to a friend. When George Caxton told her that he loved her, she ran to the river to tell it of the blessing that had come into her life. But some way she did not feel the ecstasy she had expected for. The pleasure in her heart did not rise to meet the splendor of water and sky and stone. She had often looked forward to this hour as the crowning joy of her life. But with grief she discovered that the song of nature had a higher note than the love lyric of her heart.

"Perhaps it was because the hour had been so long expected," George Caxton and Barbara Merriden had gone to sleep together. They knew every event of each other's lives. They had always been attached to each other. George had never thought of any other girl with emotion, and Barbara had long felt that she was destined to be his wife. She had said yes to his earnest question with gratitude and happiness, yet now in the mystic hour by the river, with the sun shedding its last exquisite glow upon an unreal world, she felt a weariness of spirit at the moderation of her joy.

She was turning from her beautiful river, humiliated at the inadequacy of her own emotions, when she saw walking among the pines, with eyes fixed upon the distant glory of the sky, a young man whom she had never seen before. He did not see her till she was close by him, and then he looked with a start at the face of the girl, spiritual and exquisite with its deep emotional experience. He stopped and looked at her, rapt, as if she had been some recently embodied soul created for this wondrous hour, and she stopped, too, enchanted by the eloquence of his face. When he spoke, it was to say something remarkably.

"Is it always mysterious and fearfully beautiful in these woods?" he asked.

"It is always beautiful here," she said, speaking as if in a dream. "And sometimes it seems unreal and like a phantom world, as it does to-night."

Never before in her life had she spoken in the way that she desired. It was her habit to frame her speech in commonplace words.

"I should like to walk out on that golden water," he went on. "It seems as if it might bear one up, does it not?" Barbara had a fancy and indulged herself in it.

"It will bear up any one whose heart is light," she smiled. "But, mind you, it may have no care at all. It must be as light as ether."

"Would it bear you up?" he asked.

She shook her head mournfully, and he said in a voice that moved her. "And I should sink like a stone." It seemed impossible for them to part while that witch light gleamed upon their enchanted wood, and when the shadows grew gray they became a part of them—like shadows they faded from each other's sight.

That night when Barbara went alone to the river, she found it as if it had been there all the time.

"Come," she said. "He hesitated, but followed. As the little boat felt the lift of the waves the pain in her heart seemed to lighten, and she let the current carry her along, unconscious of the passage of time. Suddenly Cecil cried out:

"The rapids, Barbara! The rapids! See where you have taken us!" She glanced behind her. It was true that the losing white-rapids of the water horses was not more than half a mile away, and the boat was quivering in the pull of their great power. Barbara smiled a little. It would not matter to her so much, she reflected, if her great problem were to be solved that way. But, still, it was cowardly to die. She set her fine young strength to a resistance, rowing up stream and inclining the boat toward the southern shore. So absorbed was she in this task that she did not notice the man with her till she heard him crying, with wild importunities to his Maker:

"How, Barbara, row! Row, girl!" Then, looking at him, she saw his face was corpse white and quivering with fear, and the next moment he sank, an inert heap, at the bottom of the boat.

"Get up," she commanded, "and take the tiller!" Get up instantly! He obeyed dumbly, shuddering and sick with terror.

Barbara bent to her heavy task and made by means of brave efforts a little headway. But the wild horses plunged on and dragged her at their heels. She was almost on the verge of yielding to their relentless strength when a boat shot out from the bank. It came toward her quaking with magnificent momentum. Barbara recognized the occupant at once. It was George Caxton. A hideous humiliation filled her soul. She was almost tempted to yield to that tugging of the wild horses. She looked at the half-fainting, praying creature beside her and then at the approaching man. And a moment of Gethsemane came to her. Then, white and courageous, she renewed her efforts. A moment later a line was thrown to her. She made it secure. Then she in her boat and George Caxton in his began a struggle against the powers of the river, in which they soon conquered.

George helped the trembling Cecil to shore, but Barbara leaped lightly to land and stood there smiling strangely. "I am thankful with a great thankfulness that I owe my life to you, George," she said. "It is a privilege." She held out her hand to the other man.

"Goodby," she whispered.

"Pity me! Pity me!" he cried.

"I do," she responded. "Goodby."

He went slowly under the pines, walking feebly like a man who is old and ill. George looked after him with commiserating eyes, but Barbara was relentless.

"Give me your arm," she said, with tender graciousness. "We will walk home together, George."—Chicago Tribune.

AN ADEQUATE AIM.

The Apostle Paul Eulogized
by the Rev. W. M.
Rochester

IN KNOX PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

SUNDAY LAST—PAUL'S CONVERSION
HIS NOBLE CHARACTER AND LIFE.

When the apostle Paul says, "For to live is Christ, and to die is gain," he expresses in a nutshell the meaning of life as it concerned him. The concentrated aim of this man was to live for and to serve Christ. He called himself the slave of Jesus Christ. So completely were all things personal and selfish suppressed in him that he could say, "Nevertheless I live, yet not I, but Christ liveth in me." If devotion to one name ever marked human life it surely is seen in this instance. "Cut a little deeper," said the French soldier to the surgeon, "and you will find the emperor." The name "Jesus" on the heart of Paul was "Christ." Many have been like him, but perhaps none greater. Count Zinzendorf, the Moravian apostle and hero of missions, used similarly to express his devotion. "I have one passion, and it is He; it is He alone."

1. How came this purpose to Paul? This was not a life-long ambition to serve Christ. The tide of his life for many years had set in in an opposite direction. He was known, was even famous for antagonism to Christ. His name was at one time the terror of converts to Christianity. For the antagonism of the good Stephen he was responsible. Yet he who once was so hot now served. The change was no accident. The out of the gate of persecution, Christ was asked to him by the way, and he found the city of Damascus a burning and then broken-hearted man, ready to accept new principles and aims to begin a new career. His conversion was sudden, and yet there was a process of which this was the culmination. Indignation had been at work, and this indignation, untrammelled, the burning of whose foot Paul said as he pronounced advocate of the cross. He gave as his opinion that he should not be used to suppress the new faith. If it was of man it would in time come to naught; if it was of God, him they could not oppose. There seem, too, from various references of Paul, to have been in his mind memories of Stephen that troubled and influenced him. The record of Jesus' kindly, unselfish life, His gracious ministrations, and wondrous works must have reached his ears and filled upon his thoughtful mind. All these and other gracious influences had their opportunity to assert themselves with full strength after the loss of the Jerusalem persecuting appointed, his appropriate service. On the parapets of a bridge, in an Austrian city are twelve statues of Christ, in the character of the Sower, the Carpenter, the Physician, etc., etc. In the early morning the peasants bringing their produce to market pause and worship before the Sower in like manner the artisans before the Carpenter, the sick before the Physician, and so on by the various classes. To us this all may seem somewhat of superstition, but it illustrates the truth that, as men come to Christ with various needs, we can render likewise a distinct service to Him. To say that we live for Christ ought to mean that, like Paul, we do what we can do for Him with all our heart and mind and strength.

1. This ambition was satisfying. Never did there cross Paul's mind the shadow of regret for this choice. He would gladly spend and be spent in such service. In this new life, though he suffered, he found rest, and joy, and hope. Here he makes special reference to the future. Death to him who loves Christ is not loss, but gain. What a different outlook there is at the tomb for him who serves not Christ, but himself. He at the words of a modern seer: "So far as you desire to possess rather than give, so far as you look for power to command rather than bless; so far as your own prosperity seems to grow out of contest or rivalry of any kind, with other men or nations; so long as the hope before you is for supremacy instead of love, and you desire to be greatest instead of least, first instead of last; so long are you serving the Lord of all that is last and least, the last enemy that shall be destroyed, death; and you shall have death, down with the worm coiled in it, and death's wages, with the worm feeding on them. Kindred of the earth shall you yourself become." The same writer has said that there is no place for thoughtlessness in life except upon one's deathbed. All one's thinking should be done before that time. Then can one be nobly thoughtless. As we stand by Paul in his last hours we see he has no concern; he is soon to stand in the presence of the King to be crowned. Havelock, a name in Britain's soldier history that stands for goodness and valor, said when dying, "For forty years I have so ordered my life that when I came to die I might face death without fear." If to live is Christ, surely shall it be that death will be gain. Is the centre of our life self, or Christ? Oh that everyone could say, "For me to live is Christ."

SELECTIONS

DEMOLISHED BY DYNAMITE.

How China's Great Wall Will Be Used to Build Modern Cities.

It took 2,000,000 men working for ten years to build the great wall of China.

Even then many parts of the wall were already there for the men to link together. The earlier sections were built 3,000 years before the birth of Christ. The final wall was completed in 204 B. C.

Now, more than 2,000 years later, the wall is to be blown up by dynamite to suit the modern idea of progress. It will be destroyed in a twinkling. It was built in 30 centuries.

An interesting and striking object lesson in China's whimsical transition in a few years from superstitious stagnation to practical advancement is furnished in the proposition to blow the old wall into ruins. The proposition emanates from the new ruler of China, the dowager empress. She is a remarkable old woman, this dowager empress, to have been evolved by a country like China. The wall has been the pride of the Mongolians all their lives. They have been reared on it from childhood. It has been a part of their religion. Up to two years ago the bare idea of removing it would have stricken the little yellow people dumb with indignant horror. Even now had the suggestion come from a foreigner they probably would have cried out for the white devil's blood and called upon the empress to banish all unbelieving dogs from the wall's protection. But it came from the great empress herself, who could cut off the heads of a thousand or two of the poor little chaps if they dared to raise so much as their eyes in dissent, and so the beloved wall must come down, with all its precious traditions and sacred emblems clinging around it.

It will be like pulling the old empress by the roots and building a new empire of things on the ruins.—San Francisco Era.

HEAD WAITER OF A RESTAURANT.

The head waiter of a restaurant, which is a peculiar assembly in many respects, enjoys the honor of numbering a waiter among its members, Carl Mittermayer by name. He was elected to the restaurant as an anti Semite in March, 1907.

At present Mittermayer is head waiter in a small suburban restaurant frequented by workmen and members of the lower middle class. He arrives at 6 in the morning and works until noon. Then he dons his best clothes and goes to the house to attend the sitting, which is usually over by 5 o'clock. At 6 o'clock he is at his post in the restaurant again, where he remains until midnight. The restaurant where he is employed is a third rate establishment, where the patrons give a farthing or an eighth of a penny as a tip. Mittermayer has a salary of £2 a month, and has to make the

Dutch Streets.

Comment us to the ever-tranquil Dutch streets, with their mellow, antique houses. These mostly follow circles, as is to be expected in a fortified place. But the typical Dutch street, found everywhere, is the line of houses by the canal, a range of old trees in front, shading the Indian red brick behind, with its bright white window sashes, as bright as much polished brass.

Nothing is more suggestive of tranquil repose and old fashion. They stretch along the broad canal before them, where bridges cross and barges lie together alongside. Even in very populous capitals we come in the suburbs on some delightful, retired bits of canal, leaving much the same effect as does Church row at Hampstead.

Old fashioned, well to do folk live here in retirement. There is one such at the entrance of The Hague on the Scheveningen side, where the charming woods begin. Anything more old world and solemnly attractive cannot be imagined. We might well fancy ourselves back to the days of Sir William Temple and of William of Orange, who may have strolled along these banks.—Gentleman's Magazine.

Table Mountain Ropeway.

The ropeway located at Table Mountain, in South Africa, is an important example of a line 5,280 feet long. It consists of a single fixed rope, on which one carriage is drawn to and fro with an endless hauling rope, the driving gear having reversing motion so that the direction of travel of the carrier can be controlled. Commencing at sea level and following the ground on posts spaced about 300 feet apart, the cable takes a span of 1,500 feet, rising to a projecting rock some 1,480 feet above the starting point. Resting on a support at this point, the cable again takes a span of 1,400 feet to an upper terminal 2,200 feet above the lower one. This ropeway has worked so satisfactorily that it is not only used for the carriage of materials employed in the construction of a reservoir, but is at times used for passengers.—Engineering Magazine.

Mr. P. L. Campbell, the well known general merchant of Fortune Bridge, P.E.I., was troubled with severe pains in his back and hips for over two years.

At length he became aware of the fact that his trouble was simply a symptom of a kidney trouble and did not hesitate long in taking Doan's Kidney Pills, and was promptly and permanently cured.

Here is his statement: "I was in an awful state for two years with pains in my back and hips. Some mornings these pains were so severe that I couldn't stoop to lace my boots. I started taking Doan's Kidney Pills, and one box so completely cured me that I have been perfectly well for over a year now and free from the least trace of pain."

Rowing.

The rowing is now at it harder than ever. The crews have all been rearranged to make them as even as possible, and Captain Langford intends to have lapstreak races at least every fortnight. A number of the new men are out in doubles, so it may be that some good material in that line will be developed in addition to what is already known. As the saving good, competition will increase speed, and there has been a great improvement in all lines. Now that the club has plenty of boats to enable all members to row a number of new men are coming in so that the choice for material will have a wider and better range than ever before. In fact the prospects for the Rat Portage Rowing Club never were brighter. Our young men and older ones, too, can do no mediately, in order to get the greatest benefit.

New York Novelties

OUR MR. RICE having just returned from a very extensive and successful buying trip to New York and other Eastern Markets, we find ourselves better prepared than ever to show Fashion's very latest productions.
Another new and novel creation that we (as usual) are the first to show in Rat Portage, and one which is sure to have a great run is in the Pully Neckwear, consisting of Fancy Collar and Tie made of dainty silks.
Some handsome waist Silks just opened up will outshine anything in town. Newest designs Pully Belts, Ties, Collars, etc., always arriving.
